

Five ADFA army cadets who saw sex with female on Skype expelled (Australia)

THE five army cadets who tuned into Skype to watch their mate have sex with an unsuspecting female cadet will be expelled from the Australian Defence Force Academy (ADFA).

Corey Parker, Damian Mahon, Zach Fitzgerald, Jackson Fysh and David Pace viewed the action on Skype on a computer screen in a room nearby as their comrade Daniel McDonald had sex with an air force cadet known as "Kate" on March 29, 2011.

The cadet who organised the live screening, Dylan De Blaquiére, joined the five to watch the show.

Both McDonald and De Blaquiére have left the academy after being convicted for their criminal actions and it is understood that the five voyeurs have been told that their probationary appointments would be terminated next month.

The third-year cadets were issued with "show cause" notices in September this year, more than 30 months after the so-called "Skype incident", and each one has failed to have their expulsions overturned.

During their trial Police alleged that McDonald had arranged to be "friends with benefits" with the 18-year-old female cadet, where they would have casual sex provided no one found out about it.
